There are no exciting news from the drill tent today – we were milling the wall of the bore hole between 2030 and 2040 m depth...

This afternoon, Gianluca and Sergio went out with both our PB300s on the road to Concordia to support the approaching PB100 coming from Concordia with Ivan and Erica. They brought two empty sledges and, in return, took our science ITASE module back to Concordia, including our cargo boxes for the next Basler flight tomorrow.

Pizza evening was again a great treat with delicious variations prepared by Gianluca and Katrin peaking in the Nutella Pizza (made from the very last glass of Nutella in camp or possibly the whole of Antarctica).
